BACKGROUND:

Oregon statute currently provides limited general guidance on the transferability of tax credits. The two statutes that exist are ORS 315.052 and ORS 315.053. Both of these were originally enacted in 2009. The former statute simply states that each income tax credit may be transferred only once, unless explicitly stated otherwise. The latter statute limits the transferability of six tax credits to a C-corporation, S-corporation, or personal income taxpayer.

House Bill 2141 enacts uniform procedures in how tax credits are transferred and uniform procedures in how tax credit certification information is provided to the Department of Revenue. Under current law, statutory tax credit transferability language exists in various statutes but is not necessarily written identically. Uniform credit transferability language contained in measure was based on transferability language applicable to the existing bovine manure production or collection tax credit. While many certified tax credits referenced in measure have sunset, statutes of such credits are modified by measure for the purpose of providing uniformity in certification of the tax credit. Tax credits that have sunset may still have an impact on tax revenue due to credit structure such as carry-forward provisions and transferability.
