

Thought you might like to hear from an ordinary, senior, low income Oregonian. I know that the trucking industry and businesses have tried to make their point but mine is a little different. I live on $1,150.00 a month. Your cap and trade will decimate my budget. New taxes on gasoline, higher electric bills, higher food costs, higher cost for anything I might need to buy. People with lots of money will grumble about the extra cost but it won't really effect them. People with lower income will be horribly impacted. I do not own a car but I borrow my daughter's car on the weekend so I can go shopping (the bus doesn't work for lugging milk and kitty litter and all those heavy items. Nor do I have the money to have groceries delivered). The chances of my being able to buy an electric car are zero (unless the state of Oregon would like to give me one). I live in a small apartment and would have no where to charge it anyway.

Please, I beg you, think of what this extreme measure will do to people's lives. Give more thought to handling the problem. Your one percent will be fine but the ninety nine percent will be drastically effected, and the lower on the income scale you go the worse it will be.

Sincerely, Diana Frazier
