

We generate way too much waste (our landfill is almost full in Central Oregon), and companies intentionally make things harder to repair. Everyone should have an unconstrained right to repair broken devices rather than being forced to dispose of them.